

The 28th Annual Connecticut Antiques Show

American furniture and silver dealers Stanley and Beth Weiss are familiar from their ads in The Magazine Antiques but were new to the A&L show. Their rare S. Hedges convertible chair, center, was $6,000; a Philadelphia highboy from a Rhode Island estate cost $25,000.

Peter Pap Oriental Rugs, Dublin, N.H.

Sandy Hook, Conn., folk art collectors Steven and Helen Kellogg stopped by to see Boston, Mass., dealer Stephen Score. A well-known illustrator of children's books, Steven had a copy of his latest, The Great Quillow.

Jesse Goldberg of the Artemis Gallery, North Salem, N.Y., with a Hepplewhite mahogany chest of drawers, $18,500. The New York City piece has rare eagle inlays and is attributed to Michael Allison.
